

1

Provide a few newspapers and some sellotape then challenge your child to use them to make a bridge between two chairs that can hold a tin of baked beans. (Or something lighter if that proves tricky!)

2

Have a look at a front page together and then create your own version. This could use real news, local and family news, or be completely made up.

3

Make a giant marble run using rolled up newspapers sellotaped together. Trial different configurations and try timing how fast you can get the marble to roll from the start to the finish.

4

Cut out pictures, letters and headlines from a newspaper and use these to make a collage. This could be abstract, a portrait or a landscape.
